

Parent Activities

Annabelle and the CoGLO Amigos have been learning about being a good neighbor. Learning about citizenship traits, obeying authority, being respectful, and being a leader are very important. Here are some activities to do at home to help your child learn more about being a good neighbor.

1. Teach your child how to buckle up when they get in a car.
2. When you are in the car and come up to a stop sign, everyone spells S-T-O-P and says STOP!
3. Say the Pledge of Allegiance with your child and teach them the song America the Beautiful.
4. Take your child to vote with you.
5. Visit a government building.
6. Tell a Veteran, "Thank You!" for their service.
7. Take your child to watch fireworks for Independence Day.
8. Discuss other national holidays we celebrate that are not mentioned in this book.
9. Look for American symbols in different places, such as on money, buildings, books, and statues.
10. Make a chore chart at home to teach your child responsibilities.
